All of the delegates here may not play, but they will follow the games with as much interest as if taking part and will carry home some interesting accounts of how the best in the country handle the mallet and balls.

secretary Bishop has received responses from more than the usual number of players this year, indicating that the entries will be large, and it is believed that the three divisions will include thirty-five to forty players. About twenty-five were here and ready will include thirty-five to forty players. About twenty-five were here and ready to play some of the games on Monday, but owing to the rain none were played, but with fair weather the games will be off in earnest this morning and be pushed along to make up for those missed on Monday. The rain has been of inestimable value to the courts, which were suffering from the drouth, the surfaces being powdery, but they will now be in the best condition for all around play.

Sets will now be in the best condition for all around play.

On Monday ex-Champion C. G. Williams of Washington arrived from Cottage City, where he has been spending a week getting into shape. There he had some good practice with W. H. Kidd of Bridgeport, who had outclassed all the player's there, but in Williams was obliged to submit to defeat, although in their first game Kidd won out. He as well as S. McC. Resolutions of Respect.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Dime Savings bank, on Monday, Aug. 16, 1909, the following minute and resolution were read and unanimously adopted.

In the death of Mr. William C. Osgood this bank loses a charter member, a vice president and a director whose services in behalf of its interests have been unremitting, conscientious, and valuable, through the forty years of his official connection with its management.

His wise and conservative counsel, his sound judgment of values, his courage, combined with courtesy in giving expression to his convictions, won for him, the esteem and friendship of his associates on the directorate, and made him a valuable counselor in directing its affairs.

His sterling integrity, his inherent honesty in all his dealings with his fellow men, his interest in an economic and wise management of municipal affairs, his honest and upright citizenship, all combine to make his death a severe loss not only to the bank by to the entire community in which he has so long resided.

Resolved, That in token of our respect and esteem for the departed member of the board, and as an expression of sympathy with his afflicted family, we will attend the funeral services in a body.

Resolved. That this memorial minute, together with the resolution, be spread upon the records of this bank, and that a copy be forwarded to the family.
